So far as we have been able to learn, the few remalaing cases of scarlet fever are convalescent, in fact, about well. Though a few death have occurred, most of the cases are of a mild type, some of them being confined to bed only a day or two. A number of cases have also been reported, which we find, on investigation, are not true, and there are n new cases to report this morning.

Free Schools Closed.
The city public school board held a meeting yesterday morning and de-cided, on account of the existence of seven or eight cases of scarlet fever in Waco, to close the schools for i few days. It is believed there will be no occasion to keep them closed longer than one or two weeks. The few sporadic cases now existing here, are under good control, and with such precautions as have been adopted, there is little danger of any spread of the disease.

All present we believe were enabled to get a lot entirely suited to their taste and the universal expression was one of pleasure and gratification at both the general arrangement and design and the natural beauty and adaptation of the grounds to the proposed purpose. In the course of a few weeks the remains of many elsewhere interred, will have been re moved to this chosen spot and then will follow a system of artistic ornamentation which we doubt not will 'er long render the cemetery one of the most beautiful in all broad land.

Dry Weather.
The dry weather continues. Clouds come teeming up from every point of the compass; men behold them and say: surely rain is coming now and immediately begin fixing the gutters on their houses so that never a drop may be lost. But the clouds all pass away, leaving the sky as blue as ever, and still the parched earth pants for water. Generally there is plenty of rain here at all seasons and for all purposes. The present fall and the summer just past have proven an exception. For weeks there has been little or no rain. Grass or the prairies presents little appear-ance of life'; the water courses are nearly all dry, and wells and cisterns are empty. Stock in places is suf-fering. Many families are compelled to go a considerable distance for the water they use. We are reminded of a story : A young man's sweetheart told him she had waited long enough. "Let us plead poverty no longer," said she, "for I am ready to live on bread an I water." "All right," was participants were arrested and will the response, "you furnish the bread appear in court this morning. One and I'll skirmish around for the water." If such an arrangement should afternoon and pleading guilty, paid be entered into in this county just now, the wife would have much the casiest part to perform. She would have no trouble getting bread or ment either, for there is millions of it in reach of everybody, but the young fellow might experience considerable inconvenience in carrying out his part of the contract.
